Tertiary Study – Distance Education

If you find it difficult to commit to on-campus study, particularly when you are working a lot, then Distance Education might be for you. Alternatively, when you are not working as many hours you may want to pick up a subject over summer to make up for a lighter load in an earlier semester.

Not all universities offer subjects by Distance Education or over a summer term, so you will need to check with your Course Co-ordinator.

There are a number of institutions offering Distance Education study options, some of those include:

Monash University: <http://oclc.monash.edu.au/>

Murdoch University: <http://external.murdoch.edu.au/>

Macquarie University: <http://www.coe.mq.edu.au/>

Open Universities Australia: <http://www.open.edu.au/wps/portal>

RMIT: <http://www.rmit.edu.au/programs/types/distance>

University of New England: <http://www.une.edu.au/>

University of Southern Queensland: <http://www.usq.edu.au/dec/>

Please note: You need to be highly committed to do Distance Education. If you are looking at this study mode and would like some assistance with your time management, please contact your SCOPE Adviser for assistance or alternatively, you might find the weekly/monthly planner worksheets of use.
